Ten Tests of A Town

Questions that people ask about YOUR town before they decide to make it THEIR town:

1. ATTRACTIVENESS—Shall I like the town—its atmosphere? Does it have the beauty of shaded streets and other beautiful features? Is it a quiet, roomy, airy, well-lighted town? Does it have attractive public buildings and homes? Is it well paved? Is it clean in every sense?

2. HEALTHFULNESS—Will my family and I have a reasonable chance to keep well in that town? How about its water supply? Its sanitary system? Its method of milk inspection? Its health department? Its hospitals? Is it without any congested districts?

3. EDUCATION—Can I educate my family and myself in that town? How about its public schools—present and future? Its institutions of higher education or of business training? Its libraries? Its lecture and concert courses? Its newspapers? Its postal facilities? Its schedule of salaries to teachers? Its investment in school property?

4. PEOPLE—Shall I like the people of the town? Are they "home folks" without false exclusiveness? Are they neighborly and friendly? Is the town free from fraternalism? Does it have strong religious, fraternal, and social organizations? Is it a law-abiding community? Do the people use their public libraries and support artistic undertakings? Do they keep their children in school and not in factories? Are they good American citizens?

5. RECREATION—Can I have a good time in that town—I and my family? How about the theaters, museums, gymnasiums, parks, etc? Are there active agencies for providing good entertainments, athletic contests, etc? Are there inviting opportunities for pleasure drives afforded by well paved streets?

6. LIVING—Can we live reasonably and well in that town? Are the best of modern conveniences available? (Continued on page 3)

SKELETON THAT OF WHITE MAN IT IS STATED

The skeleton found by workmen during a trench Saturday on San Pablo avenue, between Richmond city boundary and San Pablo, is probably that of a white man, according to Dr. Clara Spaulding, who inspected the skull of the skeleton yesterday. The fact that none of the usual articles buried with Indians was found when the skeleton was completely unearthed yesterday, further substantiates this fact.

The complete skeleton which was unearthed yesterday morning by Deputy Coroner Aubrey Wilson and a representative of the Record-Herald will be turned over to (Continued on page 4)

Annex Is Denied Use of Richmond Garbage Dump

The Richmond city council is willing to act as a charitable body to any outlying community that intends to become a part of the city within the near future and is willing to extend special privileges to those sections.

HUT.
When such a section flouts the courtesies shown by the city of Richmond by a vote of almost two to one against annexation, it is entirely another story.

Shortly after the canvassing of the vote by the city council of the recent election held in the Richmond Annex, Councilman E. J. Garrard raised the question of the privilege granted to the Annex for the dumping of garbage in the city garbage dump.

After a discussion by the council in which it was pointed out that the facilities at the present garbage dump will only serve Richmond for a limited period and that a great deal of expense was involved in securing the dump and building a road to it, that the city manager be instructed to withdraw the privilege to the Annex residents of using the Richmond garbage dump.

CARE IS NEEDED

Some Commentators on international affairs are stating that the signing of the Locarno treaty means a political realignment in Europe. With Germany, Britain, France and Italy in the League of Nations, it is claimed, that they will dominate that body and there will be two great isolated nations, the United States on the west and Russia on the east. The treaty of Locarno, it is stated, has promoted the combining idea in Europe in two directions—first against the red menace in Soviet Russia and second against the threat of "economic imperialism" from the United States.

This can only mean that having brought Germany into the family of nations to stop Russia, it is next the purpose of Europe to combine against the nation to which they all owe money—the United States.

The inference which most of these commentators intend to convey is that to protect ourselves we must tie up the United States either directly or indirectly with the League of Nations. It is however, slightly difficult to grasp the logic of this. If they threaten to combine against us, would we not be much better able to look after our own interests if free from obligations taken in advance? Would it not be easier to combine against us if we were in the league and subject to its rules than if we were outside pursuing a strictly American policy?

European diplomats are the last word in political sagacity, and it is difficult for us at best to match them. But any political county chairman in the United States knows enough to keep out of a convention which is "framed" against him from the start. And if Europe is combining through the Locarno treaty and other agencies to stop the "growth of American economic imperialism" there can be little doubt that the league and a purely league court will be all "framed" against us.

If there is any reason for our joining the league, which is doubtful, it certainly is not that we ought to join it because it is being packed against us.

After radical reductions in the federal taxes, the amount of taxes paid throughout the country is larger than ever. Why can't our cities, counties and states get away from the war extravagance and reduce their expenditures as the national government has done?—Dubuque Times-Journal.

On one reason why the United States is a nation of dollar chasers, as Europe declares, is that it has to be, in order to have enough on hand when European nations need another loan.—Detroit Free Press.

The muscular energy expended by a woman who tries to swim the English Channel would darn 456,233 socks, or sew on 523,282, buttons, or patch the bottoms of 83,211 pairs of trousers.—Omaha Bee.

If Red Grange can make $50,000 playing professional football this winter, the money will come in mighty handy ten years hence when the dear public is worshipping some other gridiron hero.

Investment bankers are preparing a strong law to end "blue sky" issues. This problem will never be solved until we can find some way to abolish all the suckers.

People who speak of American "adhesion to the world court" evidently assume that America is stuck on the court.

COLUMBUS RETURNS TO SPAIN

It was midwinter when Christopher Columbus set sail from the New World which he had discovered, and started on the voyage home to Spain. The sea had been calm and balmy on his trip over; it was tempestuous and angry on his trip home. The sailors were terrified believing that they had offended Heaven by crossing the impassable ocean. As the storm grew worse and worse Columbus cast about for a means of saving his records should he be shipwrecked. He wrote a memorandum on parchment paper, placed it in a barrel, sealed it and tossed it into the stormy sea. A flap sketch he fastened securely to the poop of his ship.

To this day there is alive a hope of recovering these bits of original memoranda. As late as 1852 a report was abroad that the barrel containing the parchment record had been found. But of course the report proved false. What valuable bits of our museums such documents would be.

The Pinta had returned to her sister ship, much to the delight of everyone. Columbus had been distressed over her disappearance for three reasons: He had been afraid that she had been wrecked on a treacherous reef; fearful lest she was aground on an unknown shore; and most of all, worried lest the crew of that ship, instead of his own, find the fabulous gold mines. It appeared that she had merely become lost.

The storm continued with fury. Prayers and piety failed to dull it. Every day the entire crew drew lots to see who should make fresh vows—to make pilgrimages to shrines or do deeds of great self-denial should they be spared. Great and solemn were the promises made to God if he would save them.

It is said that the first one in Palos to sight the returning vessels was Father Juan, a priest who had helped to get the expedition together. From his convent windows, he had been anxiously watching for many days.

Columbus was received like a king, given a body guard and permitted to remain seated in the presence of the king and queen, as he told his story.

A pension had been promised the one who sighted land and this was given Columbus, although it is said that the common sailor, Bermejo, claimed it and was bitterly disappointed when he failed to get it.

Talk of another voyage for further discovery and colonization was in the air.

Wellington Boot Reaches America

PERHAPS it is the flair for style, perhaps it is the rigor of winter, but most likely it is the smart appearance and convenience of the new so-called Wellington boot that has created its marked acceptance in Paris and London. The sensation of the season abroad is this flattering high kid boot which the smartest women have adopted.

Now the American shops are talking head of Paris and London, as they so frequently do when style is at stake, and already one sees these charming boots along the Fifth Avenue promenade. They measure 18 inches in height, alluringly starts at the ankle and most meeting the hem-line of the wrap. The heel, instep, and toe, fit with the trim precision of a delicately cut opera pump. The fullness starts at the ankle and gradually widens into a smart flair at the top which is treated in a variety of ways. The soft, supple, silkiness of kid leather makes the boot essentially feminine.

The attractive effect has perhaps been best commented on by Paul Poiret, the great French designer, who is partial to boots for women. When discussing the subject some time ago, he declared the wrinkled boot to be the most alluring of all footwear. "Conceive," he said, "a long sleeve kid glove tightly stretched upon the arm of a woman, and then visualize it relaxed into graceful, intriguing wrinkles. There you have the effect of the Wellington boot."

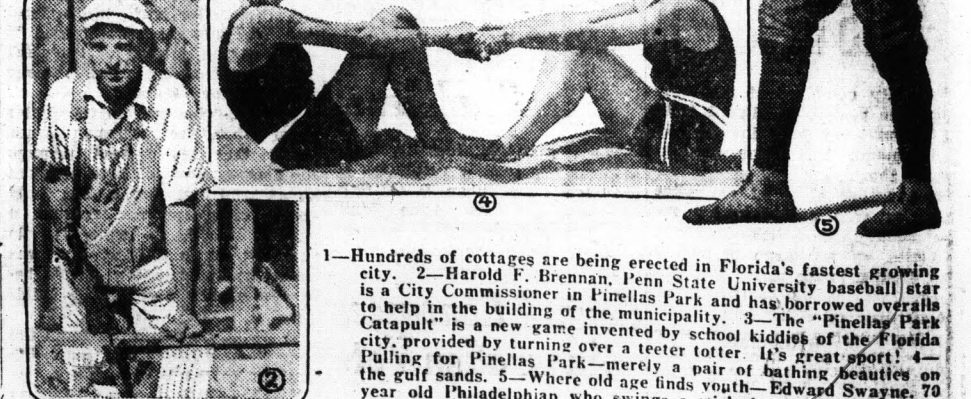

The boots are made of black kid and in a variety of colored kid combinations. The popular pattern photographed above shows a boot of golden brown kid topped with fur to match the ensemble trimming. Shown in the sketch at the left there is a model which combines a black kid vamp and cuff with a deep sea green kid; another model is of black kid with a cuff banding of ermine; a third combines golden brown and beige kid, while the last model is of a rich, dark Havana brown kid with an applied pattern and turn down cuff of a contrasting shade of kid.

Since a lack of smartness is unforgivable these days, all sorts of extra attention is being devoted to the creation of accessories that will combine a certain degree of decorativeness and utility. When all manner of apparel is so severely simple, the high button or lace boot seems too complicated for convenience, but the Wellington combines not only the flair and extraordinary chic of a devil-to-put-on shoe, but they are a really new fashion, but they are easily slipped into and promise to be more comfortable and serviceable for winter than any vogue we have been introduced to for many a season.

Everyone knows what devastating results the rain and slush of winter bring to the nude hose and beige slippers. Narrow toe-rubbers cease to function after the first few minutes in a driving gale, and the mere presence of the cumbersome arctics utterly ruins the smartest ensemble. But these kidskin boots are sufficiently warm for the severest weather, and yet the porous qualities of kid make them equally comfortable for wear indoors, while their style assures the consciousness of being well-dressed.

But forewarned is forearmed, and surely this winter there will be no acceptable excuse for lack of chic if one is equipped with a pair of these boots. Attention continues to be concentrated on accessories rather than essentials and right now everything is futuristic. Truly the smartest accessories consist of a short, gayly colored handkerchief scarf; loose fitting gauntlet gloves; a flat bag conspicuously monogrammed; a choker necklace; car rings; preferably short for the street and longer for more formal wear; and a smart shoulder pin of colored strass and brilliants.

Millions Are Invested Almost Overnight in Pinellas Park

1—Hundreds of cottages are being erected in Florida's fastest growing city. 2—Harold F. Brennan, Penn State University baseball star to help in the building of the municipality. 3—The "Pinellas Park Catapult" is a new game invented by school kiddies of the Florida City, provided by turning over a teeter totter. 4—The gulf sands. 5—Where old age finds youth—Edward Swayne, 70 winter playboy—Pinellas Park.

By John Lodwick.
Asleep for fifteen years, Pinellas Park, an incorporated city on the Florida West Coast, has suddenly awakened and is forging to the front on the hectic prosperity wave making a powerful bid as one of the southland's leading industrial centers. Almost overnight, millions were invested in the Sunshine State municipality, new industries locating there, homes, hundreds of them started to provide for winter visitors and workmen employed in the new manufacturing concerns.

Business places blossomed in the main thoroughfares and the sleepy little railroad station, closed tight since 1918 was re-opened early in December to meet with an unprecedented freight and passenger demand. Sidings that had been empty for six years became lined with loaded freight cars. Trucks are roaring through the thoroughfares with materials for scores of workmen busy day and night. New avenues are being laid out, hundreds of thousands of dollars being voted by the citizens for more improvements in one month than had been passed upon in fifteen years.

Fire fighting apparatus of the most modern type was purchased and due to the lack of labor, city officials divested themselves of coats and helped in building a new station in which the machinery and municipal busses are soon to be housed.

Pinellas Park was originally founded by a Philadelphia group of capitalists of which only one remains. P. J. McDevitt, Mayor, He stuck through the collapse following the backwash of the world war and carried on alone happy in the awakening of his municipality and its sudden healthy growth and prosperity.

AUTO HOSTS ONE-SIXTH AS GREAT AS U. S. POPULATION

IT'S a far cry from the full skirts, wasp waists and leg o' mutton sleeves of twenty-five years ago, but we have traveled also a long way from the two-cylinder gas wagon of 1900 to the high-powered motors speeding over our highways today, declares the Stewart-Warner Safety Council.

A quarter of a century ago there was one automobile for every 9,500 people in the United States. Ten years ago there was one automobile for every 33 people, while today the motor population is one-sixth as large as the human population, or one car to every six people. This rapid growth has put the automobile as foremost among American industries, but it has also produced a fearful menace to the public, points out the Safety Council, which has for its purpose the prevention of automobile accidents. A vigorous campaign of public education must be pushed if the annual rate of automobile fatalities is to be reduced from 22,000.

SAN FRANCISCO PREPARES FOR BIG AUTO SHOW

With the tenth annual Pacific Automobile Show only a little more than a month away, leading automobile distributors here were busy during the past week, making plans for an elaborate showing of automobile in the Exposition Auditorium.

George Wahlgreen, veteran show manager, it is generally acknowledged has executed a managerial coup in securing the noted musician Paul Whiteman and his orchestra as the musical feature of the big show. This musical treat will be among the best afforded the San Francisco music loving folk this season and it is certain that a record breaking attendance will flock to the annual motor display.

The dealers here, confident of these record breaking crowds are putting forth every effort to make the motor displays live up to the class of the musical entertainment so that it will be an all star performance.

Decorators are also busily engaged under the direction of Wahlgreen on some new decorative designs that will surpass in beauty and magnificence anything ever before featured at the big display.

All in all, it looks as if the motor men will have the most entertaining, the most decorative and the most spectacular show ever seen in the country, and they are confident that not only will the coming exposition set new attendance records, but that it will also set new standards by which future automobile exhibitions in this and other parts of the country will be judged.

The noted musician with his orchestra will be one of the most entertaining musical features of the season in the opinion of newspaper critics here. During the exposition he will offer a series of typical Whiteman entertainments. Only by unusual inducements could Whiteman be attracted across the country to the coast and it is rumored that he and his entire organization was retained at one of the highest salaries ever paid for any San Francisco attraction.

His local programs will be similar to the ones given to sold-out houses by his orchestra at Carnegie Hall and the Metropolitan Opera House, in New York, recently. Whiteman and his band will come direct from New York, returning to the east coast immediately after the auto show to open the New Hotel Biltmore, Miami, Florida.

Shrimp As An Appetizer

SHRIMP cocktail serves a very definite purpose in the dinner menu. The delicate pink color of the shrimp and the deeper reds and browns of the sauces make an attractive looking dish, and the shrimp combines deliciously with the tart and spicy ingredients of the cocktail, stimulating the appetite for the heavier foods.

Besides this, since shrimp is a nutritious sea-food, it is unnecessary to serve fish at the same meal with it. Consequently the shrimp cocktail is two courses in one: an appetizer, and a fish course. This reduction of the number of courses is very welcome in many households as it simplifies the service.

The canned varieties which can be purchased anywhere are of excellent quality, and, like most sea-foods, should be included in our diet more frequently. As the canned shrimp come already cooked, all that is necessary to do is thoroughly chill them and place in individual cocktail glasses and pour sauce over them, or—to make a striking dish, and one pleasant to those who do not care much for sauce—hang four or five shrimps around the edge of the glass, while a small dish of cocktail sauce is placed in the center.

The sauce is made by flavoring tomato ketchup with lemon juice; or by mixing a tablespoon of tomato ketchup with half a tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice, a half teaspoon of Worcestershire Sauce, 2 drops of Tabasco, salt and a dash of horseradish.

The Future of Engineering Is Ably Discussed

Engineering as a profession and necessity was discussed recently by W. E. Gibson, president of the Polytechnic College of Engineering, Oakland, in a way which explains the science and art of applying economically the laws, forces, and materials of nature for the use, enjoyment and convenience of man. According to Gibson the engineer is constantly on the alert and his position in life demands the qualities of leadership. He has a commanding position in the highest sense in a civilized community. Engineering is one of the most ancient and honorable occupations. The engineer makes direct application of the mathematical and physical sciences to achieve his ends. He determines the size and dimension of structures, provides for safety and successful operation. He is constantly wrestling with the laws of gravity and with the compression and expansion of gases. He estimates cost and financial return.

He studies astronomy, he knows chemistry and appreciates how vital the laws are in the composition of forms. The engineer subdues the wilderness, turns the arid desert into a garden, harnesses the continents with hands of steel, chains the energy of roaring cataracts and illuminates cities, transferring power across great spaces. Builds masses of masonry across swollen streams, in order to utilize their force, throws great bridges across deep ravines; burrows into the earth, sending shafts and running tunnels in order to extract her precious metals; explores the ocean bed by means of the submarine and traverses the azure lanes in the dirigible and airplane.

Engineering as a profession is more popular than ever before. The great industrial age in which we live demands knowledge and skill of a technical nature in all departments of industrial activity. Gravitation, potential of electricity, expansive force of steam, are constant fields for work. The engineer must have vision and a broad outlook upon life. Honesty is one of his characteristics. For his own success this habit of thought must be cultivated.

Shopping for Shawls in Shanghai

IN ORIENTAL MARRIAGE

"If I do not buy anything else, I am certainly going to have one of those wonderful Oriental shawls with the bright embroidery and the long fringe." So declared one of the youngest, prettiest and most vivacious girls boarding the Empress of Scotland, flagship of the Canadian Pacific fleet, which left recently on her cruise round the world.

It would be reasonably safe to wager that nine out of ten of the women taking the cruise made the same resolve before they started round the world, and by the time the tenth has seen the wonderful displays of these soft heavy silk shawls flung gracefully before them in the shops of Shanghai and

Canton, she, too, will succumb and buy the heaviest, longest fringed one of all the collection! Particularly if she is one who appreciates a bargain, for thirty-five dollars will buy in Shanghai what seventy dollars could not touch in this country. And every girl knows that a beautiful shawl to wear at the opera—yellow or red, or at least embroidered with red roses if she is a brunette, white with lustrous pale gold embroidery if she is fair, adds a most luxurious touch to her evening gown.

Other curious and beautiful objects can be purchased in Shanghai. Yards and yards of exquisite hand made silk lace, and at prices most reasonable. A square of silk lace large enough to cover a bridge table costs only five dollars! So if the passenger has not already bought as much flit as she can afford in Nice and Naples, she will buy at least enough to use for her bridge parties.

And indeed! And carved ivory, so exquisitely wrought that it is hard to believe that the wrinkled bony hands of the old Chinaman sitting with another piece in his hand ready for his skill to turn it into a thing of priceless beauty, could ever have carved it so delicately. And the silk shawls of Shanghai, filled with a riotous assortment of colors and weavers' brocades for the nation, shimmering soft fabrics for the debutante—gaze the bewildered shopper until she must perforce buy two or three lengths because it is so hard to decide which is lovelier.

Berney is now being sought in Oakland, as he was relieved of his post by the Clyde Company following the filing of an abatement suit by District Attorney Tinning, which resulted from a recent raid in which six persons, including Berney, were arrested on gambling and liquor charges. Berney paid a fine of $500 for illegal possession of liquor.

New Ways To Serve Peas

PEAS are a vegetable one can hardly do without, whether at the ordinary meals throughout the year, when entertaining, or during the holiday season. However, peas are used so frequently at all seasons that it is in keeping with the holiday spirit to give them a little special dressing during this time. Lately much attention has been called to the food value of peas, and the fact that they are no longer a luxury. Originally peas were a French delicacy but methods of modern industry have constantly reduced their price until the housewife can now purchase a can of peas for less than she can get them in their pods.

There are a few facts that one should know about peas:

1. Recent plentiful crops have resulted in lower prices for canned peas than we have had for several years.

2. Peas are graded by size, from the tiny peas, or petits pois which are Size One, through three intermediate sizes to the large peas, which are Sizes Five and Six.

3. The different grades of peas are all originally from the same vines, picked at different stages of maturity. Consequently, though the smaller peas, which are the most expensive, are more tender and have a more delicate flavor, the large inexpensive peas have the greater food value, because they are fully ripened.

4. Peas can be used as a substitute for potatoes—now that peas are at their lowest price and potatoes at their highest—as they are more nutritious than potatoes and are a food of the same general character.

5. Peas contain more protein than most vegetables, and are therefore useful in a vegetarian meal. They also contain mineral salts and vitamins, all of which are necessary to health and growth.

Fortunately, there are many well known ways of serving this vegetable—creamed, or with butter sauce, or with milk poured over them; in salads, as garnish for meat, creamed and served in patties or on toast in combination with other vegetables or creamed meats, in cream soups, and in clear soups.

However, here are some more recent recipes that have been tested and found excellent:

PEA CROQUETTES

Heat one can of large sized peas in their own liquor, drain and press through sieve. Blend one tablespoon flour with one tablespoon butter and add to peas. Add a half cup of milk and stir till boiling. Season, add the yolk of one egg, turn on plate to cool. When cold, form in neat croquettes, brush with beaten egg-white, roll in bread crumbs and fry in hot fat. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

PEA ASPIC

Boil one can large size peas in their own liquor with one small onion, one stalk of celery, one sprig of parsley all chopped fine. Add a half table spoon of salt, rub through a sieve, bring to boiling point again. Dissolve one envelope of gelatin in the liquor, add paprika. Wet the molten peas into the pan and when cold cut firm cut in cubes.

PEA SOUFFLE

Drain one can of medium sized peas, put into the double boiler, season with salt and pepper, add a tea spoonful of sugar and cook till very soft. Rub through colander, add butter until you have a smooth paste. Add three beaten eggs, to two cup of milk and beat this liquid gradually into the peas, whipping all very light. Turn into buttered baking dish, cover and bake fifteen minutes, uncover and bake to a delicate brown. Serve hot.

BAKED PEAS

Heat one can of medium sized peas in their own liquor, drain, pour in shallow baking dish, add salt and pepper, break two eggs over peas dot with bits of butter and bake ten minutes in hot oven. Serve in baking dish.

Eastern Cold Wave Breaks; 35 Lose Lives

The city's total dead from freezing since the cold wave swept over the city Saturday up to fifteen.

Deaths from freezing were reported from many parts of the country and the total death toll is approximately 25. Scores are recovering from freezing and frostbite. Some of the patients are in hospitals. Hundreds were left with severe colds and an increase in pneumonia is feared.

Outstanding among the tragedies of the cold is the fate of Elmer McGinnis, a young farmer of Miller, South Dakota. He was found frozen to death in the bottom of his wagon today. He had left his barn yesterday with a load of feed for the cattle and was overcome by the zero temperature when he drove to the fields.

In Chicago more than 200 fires occurred. Most of these blazes were in dwellings and many families were forced to flee from their homes and take refuge with neighbors.

Relief was still being extended to Chicago's destitute today, heavy deliveries by the Salvation Army, the county relief agents and other charitable organizations. Food stations were crowded last night and through the early hours of the morning by homeless men.

Snow will follow in the wake of the cold, according to forecasts tonight. No warm weather is in sight anywhere for several days. "Increasing cloudiness tonight and Tuesday; not quite so cold," was the forecast made by the Weather Bureau today.

Fire damage in Chicago, attributed to the severe weather, will exceed $1,000,000. Produce dealers and farmers lost heavily through freezing of foodstuff in warehouses and on farms. Rivers and lakes were ice-clogged throughout the northern part of the country.

The anthropology department of the University of California for further study. It is expected that experts of that department will be able to give the approximate age and time of burial of the body.

When the skeleton was unearthed yesterday, it was found that it had been crammed down into a hole not much more than two feet square. This fact and the position of the grave was taken by Wilson as an indicator that the body was buried in a hurry probably after it had met death by some form of violence. Although the skull did not bear any marks of violence it would have been possible for a bullet or knife to have reached the vital organs without leaving any signs on the skeleton.

That the case is one of many years ago, probably longer than any living person today could remember, was the opinion expressed by Wilson yesterday.

Trade Conflict in Latin America Discussed by U. S. Bureau Head

By the head of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. "The American exporter cannot afford to regard his present success in overseas trade with complacency. Some of the advantages we have enjoyed through adequate working capital, superior technique and efficient labor are certain to be diminished in some degree as the stabilizing effects of recent European economic settlements are more fully realized. In great neutral markets like Latin America, the next few years will be critical years, not without discouragements and marked by competitive practices, many of which in our domestic markets we have outlawed by legislation but the sales genius and staying power of the American exporter, his determination to cut out wasteful trade practices and to carry out a carefully planned, long-view policy will enable him to hold his own in the face of stiffening European competition."

This was the gist of an address delivered in Boston tonight at a meeting of the new England Export club by Dr. Julius Klein, director of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce.

"We have now really passed the megaphone stage in foreign trade promotion. The day of pleasing generalities has been displaced by the day of facts, cases and 'brass tacks' trade promotion. The coming conflict for our proper share in the trade of the great neutral markets, becomes, therefore, one dealing with actualities."

The Coming Trade Conflict in Latin America

"From the point of view of Latin America, this prospect of a struggle for her trade between Europe and the United States is far from being the terrible spectre of possible 'hegemony' or economic conquest of the southern republics as is too frequently misrepresented by certain agitators and prejudiced foreign critics of the United States. It is, on the contrary, a graceful compliment to the value placed upon the commercial favors of the great Latin American commonwealths by the trade rivals on each side of the North Atlantic," said Dr. Klein.

"such rivalry between sellers is the strongest tribute of respect for the prospective buyers and gives to the latter, not the role of a victim of conquest, but the real powers of arbiters."

"The sustained growth of our export in wholly or partly fabricated wares of some 10 per cent during 1925 over last year, notwithstanding increased activity and greater stabilization in those countries which comprise our principal competitors, further emphasizes the confidence with which our manufacturers and exporters should regard the fundamental soundness and permanence of their overseas operations," said Dr. Klein. While our European competitors have bettered their position in many instances, these have by no means been invariably at our expense, but have on the contrary represented as a rule, recoveries of their pre-war trade in certain specialties with which we have never interfered. There is ample evidence, however, that they intend to increase their activity during the next year along more competitive lines in the important markets of Latin America and the Far East.

"A statistical review of our present export position in Latin America is decidedly reassuring. In 1913 the United States supplied 24 per cent of the total imports of the eighteen more important Latin American countries. In 1923 our share of these imports had advanced to 40 per cent, and such figures as are available for 1925 indicate even further improvement in this gratifying gain. Preliminary estimates of total exports of the United States to Latin America during the calendar year of 1925, indicate aggregate shipments valued at $865,000,000. This represents an increase of about 13 per cent in the value of exports to this region over the year 1924, and is about two and one-half times the average pre-war exports to that region. This advance in our export shipments to Latin America was common to all sections of that area, but it is particularly significant that the more highly competitive markets of South America led in this increased business, with the less difficult trade areas of Central America, Mexico and West Indies, following in the order mentioned."

"Reviewing the export figures for the first nine months of the current year in certain typical highly competitive items, we find that our Latin American exports of galvanized iron and steel sheets increased considerably more than 100 per cent during this period. Textile exports to Latin America during this period totaled $73,000,000 which was 47 per cent of our total textile exports and a substantial increase over the corresponding period last year. While total exports of rails show a decline, shipments to Central America more than double over the corresponding nine months of 1924. Where we sold 8 locomotives in Central America and 20 to Brazil during the first 9 months of 1924, we sold 21 in Central America and 69 to Brazil during the corresponding period this year. Our exports of freight cars similarly nearly doubled this year and Latin American markets were responsible for a considerable portion of the increase. In such highly specialized manufactured goods as automobiles, motion picture films, calculators, typewriters, electrical goods and radio apparatus and sewing machines, American lines dominated the more important Latin American markets. MARION DAVIES IS COMING TO THE CALIFORNIA

Marion Davies may not know it but that charming little star has Irish forebears on at least one side of her family.

"Nobody, who isn't of Irish ancestry, could wield a shillalah like Miss Davies," says Frank Currier, well-known character actor. And Frank ought to know. He is the one who was banished more than once by the fair Marion during the taking of scenes of "Lights of Old Broadway," her first starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which comes to the screen of the California Theatre starting tomorrow.

In the role of a daughter of an Irish squatter who was about to be evicted, Miss Davies handled clubs and bricks with an accuracy that damaged Currier and his henchmen during the eviction scenes and left the actress in full command long after the camera had faded out.

Monta Bell was the director; Carey Wilson, the scenarist, and Laurence Eyre, author of the play "The Merry Wives of Gotham," upon which it is based.

LON CHANEY STARRING AT CALIFORNIA

Lon Chaney has triumphed again. "The Phantom of the Opera" he turns all devil to ruin a city for love. It is the strangest, most compelling role the famous star has ever attempted.

"The Phantom of the Opera" is

the story of a man with the gifts of a god and the face of a devil—and a soul, once noble, warped by his own physical ugliness.

In the Universal production, appearing at the California theatre, the thrills are told in a gorgeous setting—great crowds and spectacular scenes, splendid lovers battling against a master of illusion, torture and exotic villainy—everything that goes to make a story enthralling.

Chaney wears the strangest, most mysterious make-up that even that master of illusion has ever attempted, and his acting of the complex part is a classic. Mary Philbin was never more appealing than as the little opera singer for whom the Phantom launches a reign of terror, takes life by wholesale, and finally loses in death. Norman Kerry plays her lover and ultimate rescuer—a dashing, somewhat spectacular figure as a French nobleman.

The cast of principals is large and adequate. Gibson Gowland plays Simon, avenging Nemesis of the "Phantom," while Arthur Edmund Carew plays the exotic Persian, a queer and baffling character of the darkness. Virginia Pearson gives a brilliant and colorful characterization as Carlotta, the opera singer, and Snitz Edwards is seen as a comedy relief. Cesare Gravina, Anton Vavere, John Sainpolis and other well-known principals are seen, and several thousand people take part in the chase by the mob pursuing the "Phantom," the great Opera Ball, the Military Ball on the Grand Staircase, and the opera performance itself, in which "Faust," with its spectacular ballet, is presented on the stage of the huge replica of the Paris Opera.

Red-hot romance is the dominant keynote of "His Supreme Moment" the new First National picture now playing at the Richmond theatre.

A young mining engineer falls in love with a successful Broadway actress. They attempt the unusual experiment of a platonic "trial marriage" in the wilds of South America, where the man's mining interests call him. A mutiny of the native miners ends in a thrilling night attack which the girl repels, and in which she saves the man from death in the burning mine buildings.

Despite their real love for one another, the trial marriage fails when another woman who is also in love with the young engineer, arrives in South America and persuades them to abandon their venture. Back in New York, the actress resumes her place on the stage and the other woman almost persuades the man that he is in love with her. The dramatic solution of this tangled situation provides a powerful climax to a story through which romance is the theme throughout.

ALABAMA TEAM READY FOR BIG GRID CLASSIC

By DAMON RUNYON
Staff Correspondent Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—Over in Pasadena, where the roses bloom, and where life is very pleasant, indeed, Mr. Pickens of Alabama, holds forth making rather broad assertions about football.

Perhaps I shouldn't have mentioned the roses blooming, however. These lines go East, where the folks are staggering around in the old golfshes, and ear tip-pets, and they may think I am trying to rub it on them, as the saying goes. Still, the roses do bloom in Pasadena. I cannot disregard the facts.

And Mr. Pickens, of Alabama, is certainly over there making broad assertions as the football squad of the University of Alabama, called "The Crimson Tide," makes ready for its game against the University of Washington in the Pasadena Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

I feel that the world should be advised of Mr. Pickens, of Alabama. He is not to be confused with Mr. Pickens, of California, and points north and east, however. Mr. Pickens, of Alabama, is Mr. Champ Pickens. Mr. Pickens, of California, etc., is Mr. Bill Pickens. They are distantly related, but there is really quite a difference.

Mr. Champ Pickens, of Alabama, is of the old South. I believe he pronounces it "Sooth." He disregards all "r's" in his speech, and he is suave, and insidious in his approach. He holds that Alabama is the greatest State in the Union, and he dashed to you. Further-more, it is his contention that "The Crimson Tide" is the greatest football team ever mobilized, and that what it will do to the Washington Huskies on New Year's Day is a shame.

So earnestly does Mr. Pickens of Alabama talk that he has convinced many local football followers, even against their own judgment. I only hope and trust that no one inquires of Mr. Pickens the difference between a guard and a halfback, or it may be discovered that his assertions are founded largely on State loyalty.

Mr. Pickens, of Alabama, has no official connection with the University of Alabama football squad. He is one of a number of citizens of Alabama who have followed "The Crimson Tide" out to California, and who will cheer it on in soft southern accents against the Washingtonians New Year's Day.

But in all the Solid South there is no stauncher—or, louder—prophet of the progress and prosperity of his home State and of its football prowess, than Mr. Pickens, of Alabama. He is so vociferous that he frequently has been mistaken for a Native Son since his arrival in Pasadena. He is only slightly less enthusiastic and spirited in his praise of his homeland than a Native Son.

Mr. Pickens, of Alabama, was present today when "The Crimson Tide" worked out over in the rose bowl in Pasadena (where the roses bloom) before the eyes of a number of visiting firemen from the frigid East, including some football experts of note, and Mr. Pickens took pains to explain the antecedents of each and every player, concluding with further mention of what they would do to the Washington Huskies.

The Alabama team is taking this game New Year's Day very seriously. It was accounted the best team in the South this season.

The team is anxious to demonstrate the supremacy of Southern football against the champion Pacific Coast team. It is said that Washington hasn't gone about its preparation for the game with any too much zest, a statement I am inclined to take with the proverbial grain of salt, but if it is true, the Pacific Coasters are likely to be somewhat astonished Friday.

You see, Alabama realizes the importance and value of this game as a medium of attracting attention to itself, and to Southern football in general. It knows that the gridiron interest of the country centers on Pasadena New Year's Day, and that a victory over Washington will put Alabama up among the pictures, so to speak. Wherefore, Alabama is anxious to win.

It has a formidable looking

BOWLING POSTPONED

The Standard Oil league of pin crashers have postponed all games until the first week in January.

squad coached by Wallace Wade, a former Brown player who played with the Brown team in the Rose Bowl in 1916 against Washington State. It has a backfield accounted one of the fastest the south has turned out in many years, and a good line. In practice, "The Crimson Tide" seems to bear out some of the enthusiastic Mr. Pickens' broadest assertions.

The Washington squad, under Enoch Bagshaw, its coach, is now on its way south. It will stop over in San Francisco, where the men will practice on Ewing Field, the scene of the great game between the East and West teams last Saturday. Incidentally, the East team of that tremendous battle, under the redoubtable "Navy Bill" Ingram, is booked for another game at San Diego New Year's day for the benefit of a navy relief fund. It will meet a picked team of sailors.

They tell me out here that I will see one of the greatest football players of the decade when I see Wilson, of Washington, picked as All-American back by many of the All-American pickers this year.

They say he is a marvel carrying the ball. I accept the statement because I have found that any time they tell you out here a football player is a great player, he is exactly that. They know football players in the West. The Huskies, as they are called, will practice in the Rose Bowl Thursday evening. They are reported in good condition, in spite of the stories from up north that they have been taking very little interest in the game—at least what you might call heart interest. Twenty-nine players are in the Washington squad.

Meantime, I find here in Los Angeles much of the same atmosphere that precedes a big Eastern game. Nearly everyone you meet is looking for a pair of tickets. You hear that the "specs" have them, but are asking prohibitive prices. I have come to the conclusion that the "specs" are like the poor—always with us. I thought I had left them far behind me in New York the day of the Red Grange game.

The redoubtable "Red," by the way, is coming out here to play in January. The Los Angeles football fans seem to be awaiting his appearance with some eagerness. Up north, which is San Francisco, where he is also booked to play, they doubt that he will draw a corporal's guard. They grow so overly on professional football in San Francisco, and they say it will not be possible to mobilize a pro-team for any account for the Grange game.

The Rose Bowl in Pasadena will hold around 55,000 spectators, and I gather that there will be no empty seats on New Year's Day. This will greatly please Mr. Champ Pickens of Alabama, who desires as many persons as possible to witness what he says Alabama is going to do to Washington.

TENNIS STARS TRAVEL MUCH

By VINCENT RICHARDS
Staff Correspondent Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—William Tilden and William M. Johnston, America's leading Davis cup defenders covered 26,000 miles in 1920 to bring the famous bowl back to this country.

These two men deserve unlimited credit for this great achievement. This country and more particularly the followers of the net game should at every opportunity show their appreciation of these players for placing us at the top of international tennis.

Why it might be asked did they devote all this time and energy to the winning of a sport trophy? The answer is simply that they love the game. But it must be remembered that it is not all glory for the players. Many times they make sacrifices of which the spectators are unaware. I have seen them time and again playing when surely there could not be any enjoyment in it.

After all these men are amateurs in the true sense of the word. Their names and personalities have done more to popularize the game than anything else in the history of the sport.

In every foreign country they are idolized by the followers of the game who look upon them as super-human players. This country is decidedly fortunate in having two such players who stand out above the rest.

American Boys Are Soft, Says Mother, Due to Lack of "Wild West" to Tame

Richard Morrow and (inset) his talented mother, Mrs. Morrow, who calls modern boys soft.

Boys of America are soft, merely drifting through the early years in which their forefathers used to make history, in the opinion of Mrs. Morrow, internationally noted author and mother of a thirteen-year-old boy.

"Softies" they are, she explains, chiefly because they no longer have an alluring goal toward which to climb—no Holy Grail to find—no infant Republic to free from British tyrants—no Wild West to tame!

Parents and teachers also must bear part of the blame, Mrs. Morrow declares. To back up her opinion, she presents results of a study of boys in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan for January which points out weaknesses of modern schools, particularly boarding schools and similar institutions entrusted largely with the development of youthful character.

Educators all over the country are manifesting interest in the eight decades ago, "a creator of America."

exists: "directed play, directed diet, directed work—a plethora of direction—but no pressure to make the youngsters follow directions."

Other shortcomings of twentieth-century school and home life Mrs. Morrow lays bare in her magazine article by telling two true narratives about two American boys—the first, being about a modern thirteen-year-old boy, "a consumer of America," the second about a thirteen-year-old boy of eight decades ago, "a creator of America."

Woodmen Defeat American Type Founders Nine

The Modern Woodmen baseball team gained their tenth game in the squalling mid-winter league, Sunday, by defeating the American Type Founders 5 to 1 at Kenney Park.

Murray started for the Woodmen and pitched a first class grade of ball but was relieved in the fifth inning in order to give Center a workout. Center finished the game in big style, striking out eight men in five innings.

Elmer Hanson, did the heavy slugging for the locals; four times at bat he gathered a homer and two singles.

The next game of the Woodmen was considered the big game for they will meet Albany, a team that won twelve games while the locals lost but two. The Richmond team is considered Albany's most formidable opponents.

Local Baseball Star Signs With Oakland Team

Dick Austin, the local baseball star, has signed up with the Oakland Coast League team. He will make his debut with that club next spring.

It is intimated by Herbie McFarland, secretary of the Oaks, that Austin will be given every chance.

Austin is the "man in the iron mask" and his playing at that position and at bat has attracted the attention of the league clubs. He managed the Mercantile Trust company team that won the Richmond baseball championship, was catcher on a Concord club during the summer and at the present time is playing with an Oakland team in the winter league.

State Bank Head Denies Charges Made By Citizens

John Franklin Johnson, State superintendent of banks, today denied the charge of bankruptcy which are lodged against his office by citizens of Fresno, Coalinga and San Francisco. The matter was up before the San Francisco county grand jury late last night, but neither Johnson nor his attorney had been summoned to appear. A petition for the removal from office of Johnson was received from Leo Friedman, attorney acting for the committee, by the foreman of the jury, and he stated that it would be investigated in the usual manner.

It is charged that Johnson had negotiated a private loan from a State bank to build a residence, and to have negotiated several other loans. Johnson denies there is a shortage or misapplication of funds of the bond department in the alleged amount of $200,000 or any other sum. He states that money collected for bond certificates is expended on warrants drawn on the State treasurer with the approval of the State Board of Control.

In the certification of bond issues, it is necessary for Johnson to depend upon expert appraisers. The report of the appraisers is submitted to the head of the bond department, and if it warrants a certification it is usually made. Johnson states, although on some occasions he has found it necessary to order a re-appraisal. He states that the loan of $7,300 for the purpose of building was not made by him, but by his wife and that he was not a party of the transaction.

Is Jazz Music or Wicked Noise? Noted Authorities Cannot Agree

WILLIAM R. STEINWAY

A. G. GULBRANSEN

CHICAGO — Who shall decide when doctors disagree on jazz? No sooner does it seem to be settled that jazz is lowbrow and without class as music, than some of the most undeniable musical high-brows in the world come forward with words in its defense. Radio audiences are demanding a larger admixture of classical music, but they demand jazz also as vigorous as ever. Exact musical status of jazz is almost impossible to determine.

In recent public statements, two of the world's foremost piano makers voted on opposite sides on the jazz question. William R. Steinway, piano manufacturer, asserted that jazz "is America's most creditable contribution to music." On the other hand, A. G. Gulbransen, largest piano manufacturer in the world, who makes one-tenth of all the pianos produced in America, denounced jazz as "bestiality set to music and an outrage on decency."

Otto Kahn, chairman of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, and Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, spoke kindly of jazz. Vincente Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "Mare Nostrum" and many other novels, states that "jazz is music in collapse, an interpretation of passion and sin inspired from the lower life of man."

To support his assertion, Mr. Gulbransen cited the old master composers, "none of whom wrote a line that could be called jazz," he said, "although they knew every effect that could be obtained from musical sound."

Col. Coolidge Suffers Stroke

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Colonel John C. Coolidge, the president's aged father, has suffered a complete paralysis of the right leg according to information received at the White House tonight from Dr. Arthur W. Cram, the Coolidge family physician at Plymouth Vermont.

The President was given assurance by Dr. Cram that his father's condition is not immediately alarming and no preparations have been made at the White House for an emergency trip to Plymouth where Col. Coolidge lives on his farm.

The paralysis which followed a recurrence of heart bloc just before Christmas was said to be the result of poor circulation. It is the first heart bloc Col. Coolidge has had since 1914.

British Columbia Liquor Profits Big Reports Show

(By Universal Service)

VANCOUVER, Dec. 28.—More than eleven million dollars profit has been made by British Columbia liquor stores since the time of their establishment in 1921. This makes an average monthly profit of $220,000. Figures issued today also show how these large liquor revenues earned by government vendor stores have been distributed.

Municipalities have received $2,969,346. Hospitals and charities $1,139,250 mothers pension $507,715. The liquor board reserve fund $651,534 and the provincial government consolidated revenue $5,198,290.

(By Universal Service)

Home Life of President Coolidge Typically American, Says Frazier Hunt

Frazier Hunt, Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Coolidge and The President.

What manner of man is President Coolidge when he passes from the executive wing of the White House to the private rooms which for more than a century have been the home of American presidents? An interesting, behind-the-scenes picture of the home life of Calvin Coolidge, the man, is portrayed by Frazier Hunt, war correspondent and magazine writer, in Hearst's International Cosmopolitan for January, in which he depicts the domestic side of the Chief Executive.

Mr. Hunt not only had luncheon with Mrs. Coolidge and the President, but with Mrs. Hunt attended a ball game with them. "We had a good visit," he concludes. "We spent a day with real Americans."

was the real dish at the luncheon and, according to the writer, the event was typical of American home life in every way, from the food that was eaten and the books discussed to the lending of a coat to Mrs. Hunt by the President's wife.

Mr. Hunt tells of his visit in detail. The conversation covered a variety of subjects from farm conditions to books and the American Legion, the dishes that made up the luncheon, the household pets, the President's private library, the pictures in his study, and comment on the great American game.

"We had a good visit," he concludes. "We spent a day with real Americans."

Thus animals eat animal and man kills the slaughterers to prevent the one-sided battle from resulting in the extinction of the defenseless creatures that next summer's tourists will want to see. It is estimated that each mountain lion eats more than a hundred deer, sheep and goats during a winter. Consequently these banquets of the forests are a serious drain upon the desirable animals which Uncle Sam is eager to protect upon his great game preserve in the West. In the Yellowstone and some of the of this Rocky Mountain region take on a blanket of snow, the government hunters get into action. They use bloodhounds to aid them in tracking the mountain lions, wolves and other carnivorous animals that start their whole lives which nature sees fit at this season of the year to leave cruelly snowbound and at the mercy of the vicious fanged raiders of the animal kingdom.

So when the forests and valleys

GLACIER PARK, (Mont.), Dec. 28.—When winter comes, the real work of the United States government hunter begins. For it is then that the predatory animals of the Glacier National Park forests redouble their voracious onslaughts upon the deer, elk, goat and big horn sheep that are driven to the lower levels where they seek shelter from the winter blasts. For the sake of the summer tourists Uncle Sam orders the undesirable beasts of prey annihilated.

So when the forests and valleys

Convicts Mother Candidate for Ill. Legislature

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—A visit with her foster son, who is serving a penitentiary term for robbery has moved Mrs. Scott Durand, millionaire society woman, to consider becoming a candidate for the Illinois legislature.

Mrs. Durand's plans were revealed today on her return from Joliet, where Jack Durand spent his first Christmas behind bars of a prison cell.

"I am considering becoming a candidate," the wealthy North Shore matron declared today. "I shall make up my mind by the first of the year. Prison reform will be the keynote of my campaign for I have learned a lot about the treatment of prisoners since Jack has been in Joliet."

She also intimated that a new trial will be sought for Jack, who was sentenced to a term of 3 to 20 years, for participation in the robbery of the home of P. Edison White, millionaire head of Armour and Company. Mrs. Durand again declared that she is convinced of her foster son's innocence.

She was rammed Sunday night by a sister ship the Princess Cynthia and went down in 9 minutes. Fourteen passengers and 31 of the crew were rescued. Fog was responsible for the collision. Real wintry weather prevailed over the northern sections of the state where the much despised overcoat tonight is being generally worn as the cold winds whistle through the Palmetto groves.

The mercury here receded to 24 above zero, the coldest in many years. At Pensacola 18 above was registered.

A GROUP OF NEARLY 400 STUDENTS OF THE POLYTECHNIC COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING, 13TH AND MADISON STS., OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA

Opportunity

John J. Ingalls said: "Opportunity comes but once." Another version of opportunity has been expressed by some one who says:

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and do not find you in.
For every morn I stand outside your door
And bid you wake and rise and fight and win."

The Polytechnic College of Engineering offers a great opportunity to young men who wish to specialize in Engineering professions—to those who wish to concentrate in the subjects required in engineering practice—to those who want a high standard technical training in advanced courses leading to degrees, and to qualify thoroughly for the big opportunities that will be waiting "outside your door" as soon as you are prepared to "win."

UNIVERSITY COURSES PARALLELED IN TECHNICAL SUBJECTS

This College offers the same subjects as are given in our large universities; using the same text books, the same character of equipment, etc.; all non-essential subjects are omitted, such as military training, history, foreign languages, etc., and the student given an opportunity to concentrate on and master the engineering subjects in the shortest possible time.

RECENT GRADUATES

The following men have recently graduated with degrees and taken positions with large corporations:
G. M. Holmes, with Crescent Electrical Co., San Francisco.
Fred L. Rosborough, with Westinghouse Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
E. W. Herson, Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Santa Rosa, Cal.
J. J. Hannan, Shasta Hills Mining Co.
